RESIGNED TRUSTEES GIVE VIEWS

In Signed Communication, Former City Solons Give Their Viewpoint.

'WRITE-UPS ARE ONE-SIDED'

Much notoriety that has been given to the little village of Antioch in the Waukegan, Chicago, Kenosha and our local papers about the speed question, and the four trustees resigning, and as the write-up has been a one-sided affair, we think it is about time to give to the public the true facts of the case, namely:

That automobilists should be bound by common sense rules, as well as the laws laid down by the state and local committees, and club, such as the Chicago Motor club.

To begin with about three years ago, Percy Hawkins and an assistant were stationed on Lake street and made one arrest and was pulled off by influence which favors speed, and more speed, and general breaking of laws and rules.

When Mr. King was elected president nearly the first proposition put to the board of trustees was curtailing speed, and regulating parking of cars, and compelling drivers to go around posts at street intersections, stating he had little children, as well as others that need protection. Every member of that board put his O. K. on and instructed the president to hire what help he saw fit. He stated that as Mr. Congdon had acted as assistant at the corner of Lake and Main streets satisfactorily and was a former policeman that he thought he would be a good man, as he knew traffic laws.

For about three weeks instructions were given drivers by the marshal and the three assistants, with no effect. Orders were given to bring some in which was done, and that started the music, for no one arrested was driving over fifteen miles per hour—as they claimed.

It was circulated that the Chicago Motor club instructed their members to sidestep Antioch, and it might be well to say that the persons who started this rumor are not taxpayers here and are not in sympathy with the best interests of the community, so one of the members wrote a letter to the Chicago Motor club asking for information, and here is their answer: Chicago, June 30, 1921.

Mr. L. B. Grice, care of Insurance Company of North American of Philadelphia, Antioch, Ill. Dear Sir: I beg to acknowledge receipt of your favor of June 29 concerning the enforcement of state and local motoring laws in Antioch, Ill.

I have never heard of the Chicago Motor club advising members to sidestep any place because of the enforcement of reasonable laws.

The Chicago Motor club strongly favors any safety-first movement that comes up and above all is for the protection of all people, whether old or young, but particularly old people and children.

I am well acquainted with the streets of Antioch and I cannot conceive that anybody would object to reducing speed to 15 miles an hour while going through your village, inasmuch as it would require only a matter of a few moments to make the journey.

We do not countenance forty to fifty miles speed and we believe you have a perfect right to say where and how cars should be parked; furthermore we believe that 15 miles an hour is reasonable within the built-up section of your place and 20 miles on the outskirts. Yours very truly,

CHICAGO MOTOR CLUB,
Chas. P. Root, Field Secretary.

Having fallen down with this line of stuff, they then educated the people around the lakes that they would take their business to other towns and boycott Antioch, which was done to such an extent that merchants, some of them, began to find fault. Mind you, they did not bring their complaint to the board but sent it in, putting those members in an awkward position, as they had hired these men in good faith and should not turn them down without positive evidence.

On Thursday night, July 28, we

Professor in Agriculture for Local H. S.

Under what is known as the Smith-Hughes law, a high school may receive from the state one half of the salaries of the teachers in Domestic Science and Agriculture departments upon satisfying certain requirements in regard to equipment and qualifications of teachers.

The Antioch Township High School complied in part last year in the Domestic Science department and received $431.00. It is expected that $800 or $901 will be received this year. The reimbursement last year paid for the improved equipment and very little will need to be added this year.

The Board of Education has decided to take advantage of this for Agriculture. Mr. D. M. Chalcraft has been employed to have charge of this department. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois and has had several years of practical as well as teaching experience. It is hoped that the farmers of the township will feel free to consult Mr. Chalcraft about any problems they may have. He will arrive the latter part of August.

Sabin Window Ad Winner

The best window display is week was awarded to Mrs. Maude Sabin, with the Ross restaurant a second choice. Three members of the Antioch Woman's club, Mrs. W. F. Ziegler, Mrs. Geo. Bacon and Mrs. Ernest Simons, were appointed by the club president, Mrs. Dayton, to select the most attractive display window on Tuesday morning. The result was, Sabin, Ross and Klass each received one first while Sabin received two seconds and Ross but one.

The general appearances of window displays are a vast improvement over the show windows of a few weeks ago, and next week another quarter page ad will be given the best window.

Each merchant is eligible to this contest and may win each week, providing he changes his display each week.

"Elja" Wins in Fox Lake Boat Race Sunday

The Elja won the cup in the second annual regatta of the Blarney Island speed boat race from Fox Lake to Wilmet, Wis., and return Sunday over a twenty-five mile course. The Elja is owned by J. D. Janisch, of Long Lake. The race was under the auspices of the Fox River and Lakes improvement association. Eight boats were entered. Irene V., owned by Victor Zachia, Fox Lake, was second. Marjorie T. Robert Tarrant, of Bluff Lake, owner, third, and Lady Emily IV, J. Hannan of Long Lake, fourth place. Dexter, owned by Harry Moss of Nippersink Lake, was compelled to withdraw near the finish on account of engine trouble.

August Mau Found Dead in Chicago Rooming House

The body of August Mau was found in a gas-filled room in a Chicago rooming house last Saturday. Mr. Mau was 43 years old, and on June 28, 1921, lost his wife, due to heart trouble.

The funeral was conducted at Strang's undertaking rooms yesterday afternoon and burial was at the Hillside cemetery of this city.

New Orchestra at Sylvan Beach

The Sylvan Beach pavilion has a new orchestra and there will be dancing every evening for the remainder of the season. Mr. Rothe said about three hundred dancers were entertained last Saturday and everybody had a wonderful time. Sylvan Beach is at the north end of Channel Lake and is one of the most popular pavilions in the lake region.

NEWS OF VARIOUS KINDS

At its regular monthly meeting last week the Libertyville village board empowered President Hyatt to purchase 100 street sign posts and signs, and provide for erection of same on principal street corners in the village. Provision will be made for numbering houses in the near future, or immediately following erection of the street sign posts.

In concreting the state Green Bay road, it has been found advisable to straighten the road at the intersection of Grand avenue, which has compelled the slicing off from the east side of the road from Grand avenue southward for a distance of about 80 rods, a strip of land 10 feet wide. The Spaulding school ground is in the condemnation strip.

Income tax statistics bear out the fact that Illinois is the third state in wealth in the United States. With a net income of $1,062,796,441 upon which Illinoisans paid a tax of $99,398,236, the residents of this commonwealth paid 7.83 per cent of the total income tax of the nation for the year 1919. These figures have been made public in a bulletin recently compiled and completed by the United States internal revenue department.

Total taxes collected in Wisconsin for all purposes during the past year amounted to $89,701,788 of which $12,053,134 were retained by the state while $20,364,054 went for the county, $32,655,004 for local and $24,628,926 for school purposes, the state tax commission points out in its July bulletin.

Chautauqua Has Many Signers for Next Year

Antioch is assured of a Chautauqua for next year. This year's concerts were exceptionally well executed, and although not as much of a financial success as it should have been. Next year's chautauqua should be a banner one. Thirty-one have already signed to support the movement and a campaign is still in force to enroll fifty members.

The signers to date are: H. S. Message, S. E. Pollock, Sherman W. Ferris, Lottie Jones, Bertha James Gilbert, D. B. Sabin, W. F. Ziegler, Chas. Alvers, Conrad Buschman, S. H. Reeves, A. G. Watson, F. R. King, D. Stanton, D. H. Minto, W. E. Drom, Wm. Hillebrand, C. E. Shultis, W. R. Williams, O. S. Klass, J. Wilson McGee, Maude E. Sabin, A. N. Tiffany, H. R. Adams, H. P. Lowry, Henry Herman, W. W. Runyard, J. Panowski, Laura Hatch, Deedie Tiffany, O. W. Kettelhut, Nelson P. Drom.

If you want to help in this great movement, your name can be listed with Rev. S. E. Pollock.

Japanese Dance Tomorrow

Thursday evening a Japanese dance will be the attraction at the Channel Lake pavilion, when oriental decorations will be in vogue. Mr. W. O. Winch is entertaining enormous crowds and each evening hundreds of dancers take advantage of the wonderful strains of the College Four orchestra.

Communication

August 9, 1921.

Editor, Antioch News,
Antioch, Illinois.

Dear Sir:

The impression seems to be abroad in Antioch that those who opposed the high handed methods used in enforcing the recent speed ordinance do not wish any speed regulation. This impression is doubtless due to the mis-statements made by the adherents of the trustees who resigned last week.

There isn't a resident of Antioch who is a more fervent advocate of speed regulation than the writer. I am raising a family and I fully realize the dangers of leaving automobile traffic run wild. But I maintain that the effort made this year seemed to be concerned principally with getting easy money for those who would be directly benefited rather than protecting the community from reckless automobile driving. This invariably happens where a premium is placed on the number of arrests made. Naturally the intelligence of the average speed law enforcer is not any too great and when this is given free reign the dollar blinds any view of justice that would obtain if the fee system did not tilt the scales regardless of the merits of the case.

A determined effort has been made to cloud this issue. The issue is "How shall Antioch enforce a speed law?" not "Shall Antioch have a speed law?" I think it is safe to say ninety per cent of the automobile owners coming into Antioch believe in fair, sane automobile regulation. What they do object to is being compelled to pay fines and "costs" regardless of their guilt.

I was quite surprised to learn of the action of the trustees who resigned last week in view of the statement of Mr. Bert Grice who told me last Saturday evening that it was the intention of the Board to ask for the resignation of Officer Congdon Tuesday evening. If that was their intention and I firmly believe it was, why did they resign and put the village to the expense of holding a special election. It seems to me if they run for office again, and I understand they will, they will be back in exactly the same position they were in before they tendered their resignations and the village will be minus the money spent on the special election.

I think an attempt is being made to jockey President King into a position which is not warranted by his action in this matter. By his courageous stand he quickly righted a situation that had made Antioch a cess with a large portion of the automobile drivers of Illinois and Wisconsin. His quick response to appeals for action was the thing that will eventually restore Antioch's reputation with surrounding communities. For that he deserves the united support of the village and summer residents. Instead it seems he is about to become embroiled in a fractional row because he was far seeing enough to realize the harm that was being done to the village.

I take the liberty of asking your indulgence for this rather lengthy communication because I wish to have my position known clearly and further because I feel the president of your village is not getting the support and appreciation in some quarters that his action deserves.

Respectfully submitted,

ANDREW T. MURPHY.

Father Batty at St. Ignatius' Church Next Sunday

On Sunday next, the twelfth Sunday after Trinity, there will be two celebrations of the holy communion, one at 8 in the morning and another at 11. The church school will meet as usual at 9:45. Father Batty our priest-in-charge, will be present and will have charge of all the services and preach. Communicants of the church may make their communions at either celebration, preferably at the early one. Everyone is invited to be present.

State's Attorney Smith's Home is Bombed

Early this morning the home of Attorney A. V. Smith of Waukegan was bombed by dynamite, demolishing the entire front porch and breaking practically all the windows. The family was asleep at the time, but no one was injured.

It is thought to be the outcome of a number of booze raids in the Fox Lake district, although Mr. Smith had received no threatening letters.

PROPAGANDA TO ROB ANTIOCH OF STATE HIGHWAY STARTED ON SPEEDING QUESTION

Few Citizens Interested in Property East of Antioch Take Opportunity of Board of Trustees' and Speeding Law Squabble to "Grab" Highway

WOULD DEPRIVE LAKE REGION OF CEMENT ROAD

The action on the part of certain citizens of Antioch in voicing Antioch's affairs to a county seat paper has brought about a condition of welcomed suggestion for agitation on the part of other sections of the county to start a movement to divert the proposed state highway from Antioch which would no doubt be a very serious setback to the town and would mean the loss of a considerable amount of business. The strength and seriousness of this propaganda to exclude Antioch from the state highway can be readily seen in the following clipping from a county seat paper. The article follows:

"That the village of Antioch may lose the state road projected north from Grand avenue as a result of the unreasonable crusade against automobile owners driving through the village, is the latest word that is being spread in connection with the Antioch squabble.

"It is admitted by authorities generally that the state highway commission before whom the matter of selecting the route out toward Antioch now is being argued, gives consideration to the right of the automobilists in the use of concrete roads just as much as it does to the villages or communities through which those roads pass.

"There are two routes by way of Antioch that are being considered. FIRST the one leading directly thru Antioch main street and SECONDLY the one running north and south but a little east of the village.

"There seems to be no doubt about it but that if Antioch is going to assume such an arbitrary attitude toward automobile owners that the prominent resort people of Lake county will use their influence with the state highway commission and divert the route out of the village of Antioch owing to the antagonistic spirit shown there toward automobilists.

Sentiment with Mayor
"Accordingly in view of this development it is said that sentiment is rallying to the support of President King of the village in a very marked way during the past few days. It was he who insisted that the speedcop show a little more tolerance toward people who pass through Antioch in their cars. Other members of the council, which resigned, assumed the attitude that the speed should not be over 15 miles in the business district and not over 20 anywhere in Antioch. Then turn just here to the argument that in Chicago where traffic is real traffic the officers compel one to travel 30 or 35 miles an hour in order to keep things going.

"Outsiders are laughing at the position assumed by some trustees that Antioch at any time is as busy as some parts of Chicago as Michigan boulevard or the loop and elsewhere.

"They assert that this is a pretty broad claim and it takes considerable territory.

Commissioners to Consider Drivers
"But the fact is that if the state highway commission is shown that Antioch is so antagonistic to automobilists that it is dangerous to pass through the village and the chances are the commission will designate a route out and away from Antioch rather than through the main street.

That of course would work irreparable harm to the merchants of Antioch whose livelihood is secured absolutely from the patronage given them by the people who live in the lakes near by. Thus to divert that traffic and have a road built a few miles east of the village would prove most disastrous in the long run.

"The state highway commission feels that the automobilist has certain rights and that those whose rights do not give every village or hamlet through which they may pass enroute to a certain part privilege or right to place him in arrest just because he is going along at a moderate speed.

"When the concrete road is constructed the presumption is that the automobilists can travel with perfect safety at a greater speed than over a rough road. But it seems that every time a concrete road is opened up through some village or hamlet that the first move the village constable makes is to go out and make it as irksome for the automobilists as possible and get as much money out of them as he can induce the magistrate to impose in the way of a fine.

"The fact that it is the automobile which has made the concrete roads leading into the various villages and hamlets does not bring them any consideration on the part of the small town officials and in many cases it has brought on a most unreasonable policy, such is carried on in Antioch, according to the ones who are against the policy urged by the four members of the council who resigned.

"In view of the startling reports that the state highway commission will change the route to a point east of Antioch President King during the past two days has had many appeals for him to use his utmost influence with the commission and assure them that the village of Antioch will welcome the automobilists rather than give them the opportunity to be in the frame of mind where they are anxious to change the route of the new road away from the village.

Loss in Trade
"It is said that if the village of Antioch loses the concrete road in question and it is laid east of the village, that it will mean thousands of dollars loss per week for the merchants who have relied on this resort trade during most of the season to support them and keep them going during the winter period. With four members of the council having resigned President King and others are just now trying to spread the word that Antioch welcomes automobilists and has no red flag out in order to discourage them going that way.

"It is admitted by both sides in the controversy that practically every machine passing through the village especially if it looked like a car that could work up any speed, was stopped and even though the owner was not arrested they are warned they must not go over 15 miles an hour."

The group of citizens who started this agitation by their untimely visit to the county seat and airing their views to the newspaper of that city evidently did not fully realize the seriousness of the situation and the consensus of the people of the village appear to be a clear-cut condemnation in the action of this small group of men. The hastiness and evidently unthinkable manner in which this group of men acted may be understood when President King did not take action in this matter until Monday morning, the resignation of the four trustees involved being received on Monday afternoon and the appearance of the following interview in the Waukegan paper of Tuesday afternoon:

"A sensational turn in the affairs of the village of Antioch came late Monday afternoon when four of the six members of the council suddenly resigned by sending their formal resignations through the mail to President Frank King.

"The sudden resignations came as a climax to an anti-speed crusade conducted against resorters living near Antioch who have lately been in the habit of speeding through the village, tearing up the roads and otherwise ignoring the specific order of the council recently issued that 'nobody must drive more than 15 miles an hour through the village.'

"The sensational developments were further complicated by the sudden discharge of L. B. Congdon, who compliance with the council's order has been the village marshal for the past two months and whose strict compliance with the council's order that he hold down the motorists to

"Father and I are to stay here—?"
"What else can you do?" He went back to his traces and drew the sled 100 yards farther. He didn't seem to see the gaunt wolf that backed off into the shadows as he approached. He refused to notice that the pack seemed to be steadily growing bolder. Human hunters usually had guns that could blast and destroy from a distance; but even an animal intelligence could perceive that these three seemed to be without this means of inflicting death.

A wolf is ever so much more intelligent than a crow—yet a crow shows little fear of an unarmed man and is wholly unapproachable by a boy with a gun. The ugly truth was simply that in their increasing madness and excitement and hunger, they were becoming less and less fearful of these three strange humans with the sled.

It was not a good place for a camp. They worked a long time before they cleared a little patch of ground of its snow mantle. Dan cut a number of saplings—laboriously with his ax—and built a fire with the comparatively dry core of a dead tree. True, it was feeble and flickering, but as good as could be hoped for, considering the difficulties under which he worked.

The dead logs under the snow were soaked with water from the rains and thaws. The green wood that he cut smoked without blazing.

"No more time to be lost," Dan told Snowbird. "It lies in your hands to keep the fire burning. And don't leave the circle of the fire light without that pistol in your hand."

"You don't mean," she asked, unbelieving, "that you are going to go out there to fight Cranston—unarmed?"

"Of course, Snowbird. You must keep the pistol."

"But it means death; that's all it means. What chance would you have against a man with a rifle? And as soon as you get away from this fire, the wolves will tear you to pieces."

"And what would you and your father do, if I took it? You can't get him into a tree. You can't build a big enough fire to frighten them. Please don't even talk about this matter, Snowbird. My mind's made up. I think the pack will stay here. They usually—God knows how—know who is helpless and who isn't. Maybe with the gun, you will be able to save your lives."

"What's the chance of that?"
"You might—with one cartridge—kill one of the devils; and the others—but you know how they devour their own dead. That might break their famine enough so that they'd hold off until I can get back. That's the prize I'm playing for."

"And what if you don't get back?"
He took her hand in one of his, and with the other he caressed, for a single moment, the lovely flesh of her throat. The love he had for her spoke from his eyes—such speech as no human vision could possibly mistake. Both of them were tingling and breathless with a great, sweet wonder.

"Never let those fangs tear that softness, while you live," he told her gently. "Never let that brave old man on the sled go to his death with the pack tearing at him. Cheat 'em, Snowbird! Beat 'em the last minute, if no other way remains! Show 'em who's boss, after all—of all this forest."

"You mean—?" Her eyes widened.

"I mean that you must only spend one of those three shells in fighting off the wolves. Save that till the moment you need it most. The other two must be saved—for something else."

She nodded, shuddering an instant at a menacing shadow that moved within 60 feet of the fire.
"Then goodbye, Dan!" she told him. And she stretched up her arms. "The thing I said—that day on the hillside—doesn't hold any more."

His own arms encircled her, but he made no effort to claim her lips. Lennox watched them quietly; in this moment of crisis not even pretending to look away. Dan shook his head to her entreating eyes. "It isn't just a kiss, darling," he told her soberly. "It goes deeper than that. It's a symbol. It was your word, too, and mine; and words can't be broken, things being as they are. Can't I make you understand?"

She nodded. His eyes burned. Perhaps she didn't understand, as far as actual functioning of the brain was concerned. But she reached up to him, as women—knowing life in the concrete rather than the abstract—have always reached up to men; and she dimly caught the gleam of some eternal principle and right behind his words. This strong man of the mountains had given his word, had been witness to her own promise to him and to herself, and a law that goes down to the roots of life prevented him from claiming the kiss.

Many times, since the world was new, comfort—happiness—life itself have been contingent on the breaking of a law. Yet in spite of what seemed common sense, even though no punishment would forthcome if it were broken, the law has been kept. It was this way now. It wouldn't have been just a kiss such as boys and girls have always had in the moonlight. It meant the symbolic renunciation of the debt that Dan owed Cranston—a debt that in his mind might possibly go unpaid, which no weight of circumstance could make him renounce.

His longing for her lips pulled at the roots of him. But by the laws of his being he couldn't claim them until the debt incurred on the hillside, months ago, had been paid; to take them now meant to dull the fine edge of his resolve to carry the issue through to the end, to dim the star that led him, to weaken him, by bending now, for the test to come. He didn't know why. It had its fount in the deep wells of the spirit. Common sense can't reveal how the holy man keeps strong the spirit by denying the flesh. It goes too deep for that. Dan kept to his consecration.

He did, however, kiss her hands, and he kissed the tears out of her eyes. Then he turned into the darkness and broke through the ring of the wolves.

CHAPTER III.

Dan Felling was never more thankful for his unerring sense of direction. He struck off at a forty-five-degree angle between their late course and a direct road to the river, and he kept it as if by a surveyor's line. All the old devices of the wilderness—the ridge on ridge that looked just alike, inclines that to the casual eye looked like downward slopes, streams that vanished beneath the snow, and the snow-mist blowing across the face of the landmarks—could not avail against him.

A half dozen of the wolves followed him at first. But perhaps their fierce eyes marked his long stride and his powerful body, and decided that their better chance was with the helpless man and the girl beside the flickering fire. They turned back, one by one. Dan kept straight on and in two hours crossed Cranston's trail. He didn't doubt but that he would find Cranston in his camp, if he found the camp at all. The man had certainly returned to it immediately after setting fire to the buildings, if for no other reason than for food. It isn't well to be abroad on the wintry mountains without a supply of food; and Cranston would certainly know this fact.

"Keep the Fire Burning."

Dan didn't know when a rifle bullet from some camp in the thickets would put an abrupt end to his advance. The brush grew high by the river, the elevation was considerably lower, and there might be one hundred camps out of the sight of the casual wayfarer. If Cranston should see him, musing across the moonlit snow, it would give him the most savage joy to open fire upon him with his rifle.

Dan's keen eyes searched the thickets, and particularly they watched the sky line for a faint glare that might mean a camp fire. He tried to walk silently. It wasn't an easy thing to do with awkward snowshoes; but the river drowned the little noise that he made. He tried to take advantage of the shelter of the thickets and the trees. Then, at the base of a little ridge, he came to a sudden halt.

He had estimated just right. Not two hundred yards distant, a camp fire flickered and glowed in the shelter of a great log. He saw it, by the most astounding good fortune, through a little rift in the trees. Ten feet on either side, and it was obscured.

He lost no time. He did not know when the wolves about Snowbird's camp would lose the last of their cowardice. Yet he knew he must keep a tight grip on his self-control and not let the necessity of haste cost him his victory. He crept forward, step by step, placing his snowshoes with consummate care. When he was one hundred yards distant he saw that Cranston's camp was situated beside a little stream that flowed into the river and that—like the mountaineer he was—he had built a large lean-to reinforced with snowbanks. The fire burned at its opening. Cranston was not in sight; either he was absent from camp or asleep in his lean-to. The latter seemed the more likely.

Dan made a wide detour, coming in about thirty yards behind the construction. Still he moved with incredible caution. Never in his life had he possessed a greater mastery over his own nerves. His heart leaped somewhat fast in his own breast; but this was the only wasted motion. It isn't easy to advance through such thickets without ever a misstep, without the rustle of a branch or the crack of a twig.

Certain of the wild creatures find it easy; but men have forgotten how too many centuries of cities and farms. It is hardly a human quality, and a spectator would have found a rather ghastly fascination in watching the little motions, the passionless face, the hands that didn't shake at all. But there were no spectators—unless the little band of wolves, stragglers from the pack that had gathered on the hills behind—watched with lighted eyes.

Dan went down at full length upon the snow and softly removed his snow shoes. They would be only an impediment in the close work that was sure to follow. He slid along the snow crust, clear to the mouth of the lean-to.

The moonlight poured through and showed the interior with rather remarkable plainness. Cranston was sprawled, half-sitting, half-lying on a tree-bough pallet near the rear wall. There was not the slightest doubt of the man's wakefulness. Dan heard him stir, and once—as it at the memory of his deed of the day before—he cursed in a savage whisper. Although he was facing the opening of the lean-to, he was wholly unaware of Dan's presence. The latter had thrust his head at the side of the opening, and it was in shadow. Cranston seemed to be watching the great, white snow fields that lay in front, and for a moment Dan was at loss to explain this seeming vigil. Then he understood. The white field before him was part of the long ridge that the three of them would pass on their way to the valleys. Cranston had evidently anticipated that the girl and the man would attempt to march out—even if he hadn't guessed they would try to take the helpless Lennox with them—and he wished to be prepared for emergencies. There might be sport to have with Dan, unarmed as he was. And his eyes were full of strange conjectures in regard to Snowbird. Both would be exhausted now and helpless.

Dan's eyes encompassed the room: the piles of provisions heaped against the wall, the snow shoes beside the pallet, but most of all he wished to locate Cranston's rifle. Success or failure hung on that. He couldn't find it at first. Then he saw the glint of its barrel in the moonlight—leaning against a grub box possibly six feet from Cranston and 10 from himself.

His heart leaped. The best he had hoped for—for the sake of Snowbird, not himself—was that he would be nearer to the gun than Cranston and would be able to seize it first. But conditions could be greatly worse than they were. If Cranston had actually had the weapon in his hands, the odds of battle would have been frightfully against Dan. It takes a certain length of time to seize, swing, and aim a rifle; and Dan felt that while he would be unable to reach it himself, Cranston could not procure it either, without giving Dan an opportunity to leap upon him. In all his dreams, through the months of preparation, he had pictured it thus. It was the test at last.

The gun might be loaded, and still—in these days of safety devices—unready to fire; and the loss of a fraction of a second might enable Cranston to reach his knife. Thus Dan felt justified in ignoring the gun altogether and trusting—as he had most desired—to a battle of hands. And he wanted both hands free when he made his attack.

If Dan had been erect upon his feet, his course would have been an immediate leap on the shoulders of his adversary, running the risk of Cranston reaching his hunting knife in time. But the second that he would require to get to his feet would entirely offset this advantage. Cranston could spring up, too. So he did the next most disarming thing.

He sprang up and strode into the lean-to.

STEAMER SINKS; MANY MISSING

Alaska Hits a Reef Off the Coast of California, Report.

BELIEVED FIFTY ARE LOST

Search for Survivors by Other Ships Continues After Pacific Steamship Goes Down Within Few Minutes After Mishap.

Eureka, Cal., Aug. 9.—The steamer Alaska of the San Francisco and Portland Steamship company, with 131 passengers and a crew of 80, went ashore in a dense fog at Blunt's reef, 40 miles south of here and sank within 15 minutes.

Latest reports from Cable Bluff wireless station, near here, say the loss of life in the sinking of the liner Alaska may total 40 passengers and 20 of the crew.

Twenty-six of the passengers and 16 of the crew of the steamship are missing, according to a message from the scene of the sinking.

The steamer Anyox is lying outside of the harbor here with survivors, awaiting a pilot. The tug Ajax also is outside the bar with survivors.

The bodies of nine persons who perished were brought here by the coast guard tug Ranger.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 9.—The steamer Anyox had picked up four boatloads of survivors of the Alaska up to daylight. The North Head radio station then reported the steamers Anyox and Waukegan standing by.

The tug Ranger left Eureka for the scene of the wreck at three o'clock in the morning. The motorship Charlie Watson, which was 15 miles from the wreck, also headed toward it.

PARACHUTE JUMPER KILLED

25,000 Persons See Army Flyer Dashed Onto Tower at Chicago by High Wind.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Sergeant Patrick Love, U. S. aviator stationed at Rantoul field, was killed while making a parachute jump from an airplane at the Pageant of Progress here.

He made the leap from the ship at 2,000 feet. The high wind blew the parachute against the northeast tower of the pier. He died a few minutes after being taken from the roof of the pier to the Emergency hospital. It was his first parachute jump. He had been equipped with a life preserver and planned to fall into the water.

DENIES OFFERING BERGDOLL

Berlin Says Published Dispatches Regarding the American Slacker Are Not Correct.

Berlin, Aug. 9.—German officials here deny published reports that negotiations have been concluded for the handing over of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll to the United States authorities, saying that the German government has had no official discussion on the subject.

Wilhelmstrasse cannot say definitely whether such negotiations took place at Cologne between the American authorities and Berlin government officials.

HAYS TO STUDY BIG DEFICIT

Postmaster General Wants to Know Which of Ventures Is Losing One.

Washington, Aug. 9.—Parcel post rates must be increased, if an investigation shows that this service is responsible for an expected deficit of $70,000,000 in the postal revenue this year, Postmaster General Will Hays says.

Accountants and post office engineers are now checking through the entire country to learn if the parcel post is, as suspected, one of the two big losing ventures of the department.

SINGERS REPLACE MUSICIANS

Choruses Take the Place of Orchestras in New York Motion Picture Houses.

New York, Aug. 9.—Choruses replaced the striking musicians in motion picture houses here. In one of the biggest theaters there were 70 voices in the chorus and in another 40.

The accompaniments were played on the organs with which the theaters are equipped. Between pictures soloists entertained the audiences. Managers declare the plan will continue in operation until the strikers come to terms.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE LIFE

A Dangerous Period Through Which Every Woman Must Pass

Practical Suggestions Given by the Women Whose Letters Follow

Afton, Tenn.—"I want other suffering women to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. During the Change of Life I was in bed for eight months and had two good doctors treating me but they did me no good. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and in a short time I felt better. I had all kinds of bad spells, but they all left me. Now when I feel weak and nervous I take the Vegetable Compound and it always does me good. I wish all women would try it during the Change of Life for I know it will do them good. If you think it will induce some one to try the Vegetable Compound you may publish this letter."—Mrs. A. KELLER, Afton, Tenn.

Mrs. Mary Lister of Adrian, Mich., adds her testimony to the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to carry women safely through the Change of Life. She says:

"It is with pleasure that I write to you thanking you for your wonderful medicine has done for me. I was passing through the Change of Life and had a displacement and weakness so that I could not stand on my feet and other annoying symptoms. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the first bottle helped me, so I got more. It cured me and I am now doing my housework. Your medicine is certainly a woman's friend and you may use this testimonial as you choose."—Mrs. MARY LISTER, 608 Frank Street, Adrian, Mich.

It is said that middle age is the most trying period in a woman's life, and owing to modern methods of living not one woman in a thousand escapes through this perfectly natural change without experiencing very annoying symptoms. Those smothering spells, the dreadful hot flashes that send the blood rushing to the head until it seems as though it would burst, and the faint feeling that follows, as if the heart were going to stop, those sinking or dizzy spells are all symptoms of a nervous condition, and indicate the need for a special medicine.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a root and herb medicine especially adapted to act upon the feminine system. It acts in such a manner as to build up the weakened nervous system and enables a woman to pass this trying period with the least possible annoying symptoms.

Women everywhere should remember that most of the commoner ailments of women are not the surgical ones—they are not caused by serious displacements or growths, although the symptoms may be the same, and that is why so many apparently serious ailments readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it acts as a natural restorative and often prevents serious troubles.

Antioch Defeats Renehan Colts

Last Sunday's game on the local diamond was one of the best this season, the contest being between Antioch and Avon (Renehan's Colts). Both teams were well matched.

The game opened with Wilton pitching for the locals and he walked the first man up, the second man making a hit which resulted in a double play, and the third man to bat struck out and no runs came in.

The second half of the first inning was opened by B. Fields, making a hit, and with a little help got to third where he was left. Every inning up to the fifth was close and no runs resulted.

C. Fields opened the fifth and got on base, L. Hook making a clean hit bringing in (Red) Fields, the first run of the game for the locals. In the sixth the visitors tied the score, but the locals were hot on their trail and brought in another run in the last half. In the sixth Wilton hit Olson and then began to weaken a little from a sore shoulder. He was relieved by L. Hook, who was the surprise of the day, as no one figured that the locals had any more pitching material. This was a little secret of the manager and he figured it was time to make the change as the game was going pretty tight and the fans were looking forward to a bad ending for the locals.

The locals brought in another tally in the seventh, making the score three to one, which figured out as a good day's work, but when the other side started out to get Hook's goat, the locals passed the word around "we'll pound that pitcher Olson all over the field," and they sure did it in the eighth, when seven men batted, bringing in three more runs, making the score 6 to 1.

"County Fair" at the Majestic

It's in the air. Everybody that's heard about it is sittin' up and takin' notice. There's excitement and then some amongst the folks that know that the "County Fair" is comin' to town.

Even old Uncle Ezra, groanin' with the mizzery for 15 years, declares that he's fella' fit and bound to go. The kids are savin' their pennies and the old folks are makin' their plans ahead. Everybody—from 1 to 100 years old—will be at the county fair.

It's grippin' drama one minute and hilarious comedy the next. There's a horse race—"Cold Molasses" wins by a nose—that makes you hold your breath; and there's a greased pig chase—"Freckles" Barry catches him

30x3 1/2 STANDARD
NON-SKID

The Fastest Selling Tire In America

The increasing popular demand for the Firestone Standard 30x3 1/2 inch tire over a period of years has given us big volume. Our Plant No. 2 devoted wholly to this size tire with a capacity of 16,000 tires and 20,000 tubes per day cuts costs on every operation. On May 2, we dropped our price to $13.95 passing on to the car owner the full benefits of this big sales volume and this labor-saving plant. This tire has been our standard for years—four plies long staple fabric—extra gum between plies—heavy non-skid tread. The greatest value ever offered car owners. Insist on Firestone.

Our Cord Tire Values

Firestone Cord tires are made exclusively in Plant No. 1. Our process of double gum-dipping each ply of cord gives thicker insulation. The massive non-skid tread, with extra thickness where wear is most severe, gives real effectiveness in holding the car against slipping and adds many extra miles of service.

Firestone Cord tires are sold at the lowest prices in cord tire history: 30x3 1/2, $24.50; 32x4, $46.30; 34x4 1/2, $54.90.

were called in for a special meeting on the speed question with the special police and found the president had changed front through threats or pressure. He wanted to fire him on that night, but certain members thought not without some reliable information. A motion was made by Nason Sibley, seconded by L. B. Grice, and carried, by the full board that Fred Hawkins be appointed to use pressure on Mr. Congdon, and if he could not the board would fire him on the regular meeting night—August 2—if they found that the letters said to have been received by several of the business men were correct statements. They were more than surprised to learn that the president went over their heads Monday and went back on just what he put up to the board on that first night. That is the reason and the only reason that the four members resigned.

In order to get some information (not hearsay) on the question one of the members wrote the following letter to Mr. Murphy of whom you have heard so much, and read some of the letters said to have been written by him.

July 27, 1921.

Andrew Murphy, Chicago, Ill. Dear Sir: I had a communication laid on my desk which you wrote to Dr. Warriner complaining about the abuse your chauffeur received by our deputy officer and as I am one of the aldermen I was glad to learn of this. We are a summer resort town and as such are depending on the transients for our support.

You possibly are not familiar with both sides of this situation, for all questions have two sides, and no doubt you have heard only one side.

If you lived in Antioch with a family of children and have the speeders and take full charge of the streets as they have for five or six years, old people and children having no privileges, I believe you will say that we must do something to protect life.

I as an official only want common sense laws obeyed, but a certain crowd, and especially some here at home, want all laws and rules broken, and deliberately park wrong, drive as fast as the car can go, and generally disobey rules, because they have been allowed to do so.

I wrote to the Chicago Motor club for their views, and they said that 15 miles in the resident district and slower in the congested part was fast enough, and they wanted their members to obey the laws.

We want our officers to be gentlemen and also the chauffeurs, and I wish you would write me a letter at once so that I can take it to the next meeting—in a bout a week—and I will look into this matter.

Thanking you in advance, I remain, very truly yours, L. B. GRICE.

This information asked for in the above letter was never received.

Those same interests are spreading their propaganda that the big men having the cement road in their hands will sidestep Antioch unless the taxpayers and the public will allow the auto drivers to make a foot rug of them, is all bosh, for they hardly know that Antioch is on the map. We will leave it to the public, if anyone of those four men who resigned have not welcomed any and all the Chicago tourists that meant to be good citizens and obey reasonable laws. We believe that thirty-five and forty miles is too fast, and that twenty miles is fast enough in any city where traffic is as heavy as Antioch.

Every member, with the president, was conscientious on that first night and tried to do what was fair and honorable with the public, but why elect men to fill an office and then go from coast to coast for pressure to sidestep good laws and good issues? Is that good politics?

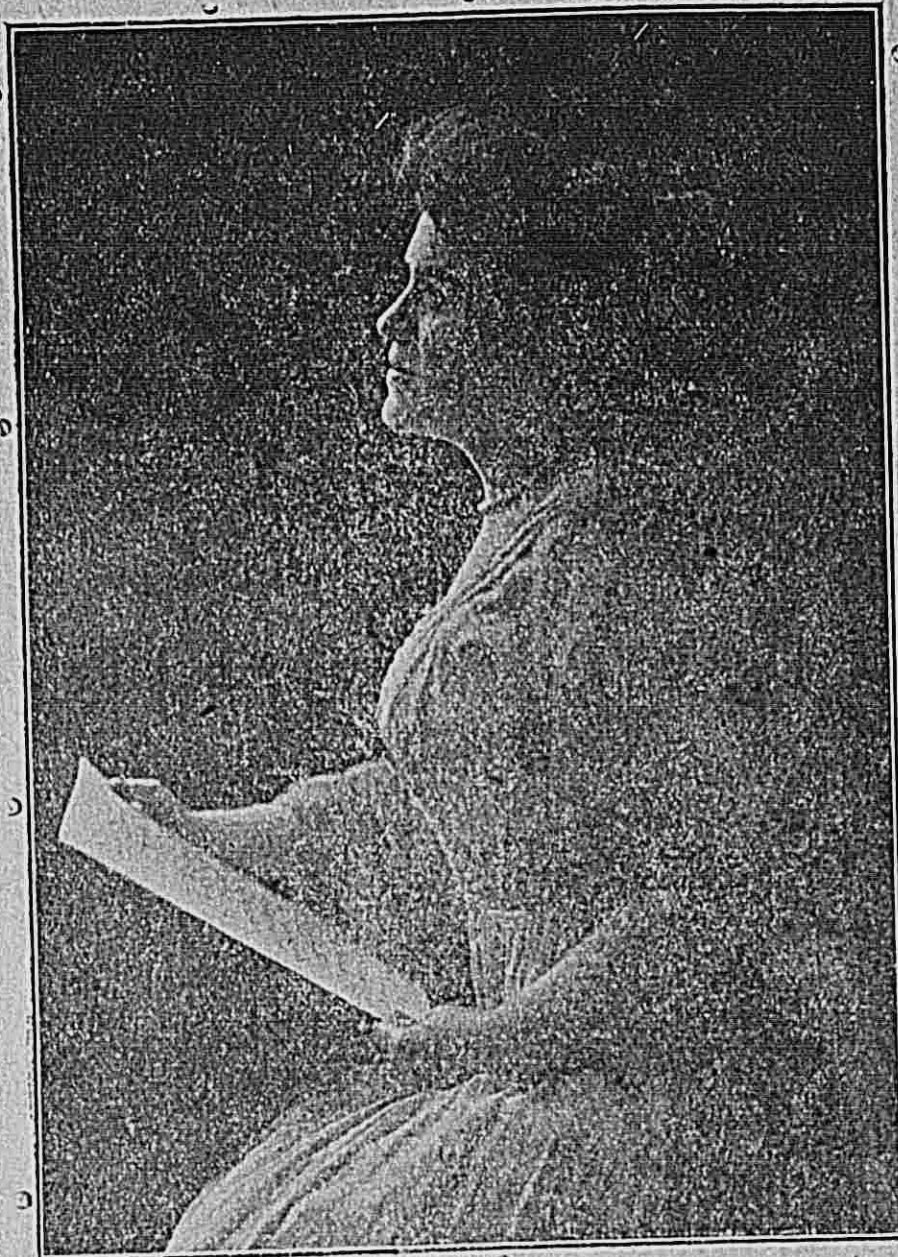

Very truly yours,

C. F. RICHARDS,
L. B. GRICE,
NASON SIBLEY,
FRED HAWKINS.

There was to be a children's masquerade party and Tommy and the neighbor's little girl were to go as Jack and Jill. Tommy's mother had remarked that his costume for the part of Jack should not cost more than $5, when his little sister piped up, "Five dollars? I should think that's too much. All he needs is a hill and a pail of water."

MRS. BERTHA JAMES GILBERT

The children's pageant "A Day in Flowerdom" under the able supervision of Mrs. Bertha James Gilbert was considered a great success. About thirty children, from five to fifteen years old composed the play. Little Bernice Riech, sang with exceptional talent, as well as Lonise Simons and Dorothy Brogan.

The Hot Dog orchestra, composed of two saxophones and a drum gave a number of jazz selections.

Miss McDuffee, a professional whistler from Chicago gave a number of exceptionally fine numbers. The entertainment was given in connection with the bazaar held by the ladies of St. Ignatius' church.

Famous English Poet.

Lodore is a quaint little village from Greta Hall, Keswick, Cumberland, England, rendered famous by the wonderful piece of word-matching by the English poet, Robert Southey, called "The Cataract of Lodore," published in 1820. This has been considered one of the best pieces of word-painting in the English language, at least of a similar length.

W. J. Kittle of Crystal Lake has resigned as superintendent of the Milk Producers Co-operative Marketing company. His successor is yet to be named.

Kittle's action came at a meeting of members of the executive committee and delegates called together in Chicago to map out a price program and take other steps to organize a 100 percent marketing company. Although officials were reticent in discussing the situation it was learned that efforts will be made to enroll every dairyman in the producers' association covering practically all of Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana.

The former superintendent becomes sales manager of the marketing company, which work he has been closely associated with for several months. He will handle the product of the company's condensed milk plants.

"There was too much work for one man," said Kittle in explaining his resignation. "As superintendent I also had charge of the sales end of the business."

W. J. Kittle, who has resigned as superintendent of the marketing company, succeeded Charles H. Potter of Elgin. Potter was ousted when the office of manager, which he had held since the company's organization was abolished.

The Lake Villa boys played their first game of base ball last Sunday on the home grounds with the Libertyville team. The score was 14-5 in favor of Libertyville. Morley pitched for Lake Villa.

Manager Tarbell has been complaining about the small attendance at the games of late. What's the reason? Surely the locals are playing the best of ball right now. Next Sunday the locals will play Gurnee and they are a strong team and all the local fans should be out rooting for the home boys.

Every day on the street we hear how many games Silverlake has won this season, sixteen in all and the local fans would like to see a series between this very much talked of team, we can't see any reason why the locals can't break the ice and trim them. The News is strongly in favor of this match and would do all in its power to get these two teams together.

Mrs. Lucy Righeimer, mother of Cook County Judge Righeimer died at Long Lake, after an illness of several months. Mrs. Righeimer passed away Sunday night at 11 o'clock.

Grief over the loss of her husband, George Righeimer, is believed to have hastened her death. The judge's father died last November on the eve of his son's election. The funeral took place Wednesday from the family home, 47 N. Lockwood avenue, and was private. Seven children survive.

Destroy Roadside Weeds

A great number of people this year have as yet failed to destroy the weeds on their property. Now is the time to get busy, before seeding time, and cut all the weeds on your premises.

Opening of the bids for the construction of the Wauconda-Volo concrete highway, four and six-tenths miles in length, practically assures that improvement as one bid, that of Fred Nelson, of Racine, Wis., is near the $30,000 a mile limit the state highway department has placed upon Illinois road construction work.

The bid of Nelson was $142,421. At the rate of $30,000 a mile the cost would be $138,000. Because of the nearness of the bid it is believed the state highway department will not let it being only $1,000 a mile over the state limit.

This is considered a very important improvement and the county highway department will make every effort to see that it goes through at as early a date as possible.

Whether the Green Bay road, between Washington street and Grand avenue will be improved is doubtful as the only bid was that of the Conway Construction company, their figure being $32,164.21 for the mile to be improved.

ers at the Silverlake ball park. The State Liners will present the strongest line-up with such lately acquired stars as Kelly, Conley, Thayer, Anweiler and McClellan in their line-up. Come out and see a real ball game, Sunday.

The river banks were lined with spectators Sunday to watch the racing boats in the Blarney Island cup race. Elja, owned by J. B. Jamisch, of Chicago, carried off the cup. Victor Vlachia's Irene was second and Bob Tarrant's Marjorie was third. The races are an annual affair given under the auspices of the Fox River and Lake Improvement association. There were not as many speed boats entered this year as in the past.

The mission festival held at the Ev. Lutheran church Sunday was largely attended. The Concordia quartet, of Racine, sang. Rev. J. Klingman, of Watertown, conducted the morning services; Rev. W. Gahl, of Chicago, the afternoon services, and Rev. C. Berg, of Bristol, the evening services. Members of the Lake Geneva, Burlington, Bristol and Slade's Corners churches as well as a large crowd from here was in attendance.

A very sad event of the past week was the death of Mrs. Frances Buckley, nee Piper, widow of the late James Buckley, of Chicago. Both Mr. and Mrs. Buckley were well known in Kenosha county, Mr. Buckley having been engaged in the sand and gravel business here for many years. Mr. Buckley died in April of this year and Mrs. Buckley, who was not in good health, failed day by day after his death. She died in Chicago Wednesday, August 3, and was buried on Saturday. She is mourned by her daughters, Lucy and Marie, and her sons, James, Charles and Arthur, all of whom have spent much time in Wilmot. Friends often noted the singular devotion that existed between this husband and wife and death was not allowed to long separate them.

Silverlake won their sixteenth consecutive game Sunday by defeating the Opeka All Stars, of Chicago, 4 to 1 in one of the fastest games seen at Silverlake park this season. The game was a pitcher's battle between Opeka and Edgar. Opeka allowed five hits and struck out 11 men, while Edgar allowed only four well scattered hits and struck out 12 men. Some good base running gave Silverlake two runs in the third inning. Barber was caught between second and third on Edgar's fielders choice, but made third safely after considerable jockeying and Edgar meanwhile advanced to second. A passed ball allowed Barber to score and Edgar advanced to third and scored a moment later on Robertson's sacrifice fly. Edgar's doubles and singles by Robertson and H. Hegeman gave the local team two more runs in the eighth. Molinare was absent and his place was filled by Hanneman.

Start Propaganda to Deprive Antioch of State Highway

15 miles an hour' was what precipitated the crisis of the council.

"The councilmen who resigned were as follows:

Fred Hawkins.

Bert Grice.

Nason Sibley.

Charles Richards.

"The remaining councilmen who have not been involved in the situation are Messrs. Foss and Osmond.

"As the thing now stands the village of Antioch is without a city council and it is not in position to transact business in a legal way. Therefore the situation is most complex and just what will be done is not yet known but the chances are that a special election must be called soon.

"Analyzing the whole situation regarding the resignation of the four councilmen, the enforcement of speed laws, the resignation of the marshal, etc., the facts are these: Some time ago the village council decided that motorists must abide by the speed law, namely 15 miles an hour. Accordingly Marshal Congdon was instructed that he should go out and see that motorists obey the law. He did so and declared he thought the council meant he was to do exactly that to enforce the law.

Gets Folks Peaved

"Now then, in enforcing the law you naturally have to step on somebody's toes and it was because he chanced to step on those of several prominent resorters that a crisis began developing.

"The agitation spread until it became a general question in the village in which villagers and business men took sides. In fact, for some weeks past there has been no question in Antioch which has been so paramount as the enforcement of the speed ordinance.

"Things began developing when Andrew Murphy and his son, rather prominent resorters living near Antioch were arrested at different times for 'burning up the road.' But they declared that they were innocent and resorted to a defense by the Chicago Automobile club and they got their attorney to represent them in the hearing.

"However the justice held that Murphy was guilty and assessed a fine. After the hearing, according to Marshal Congdon, the Chicago attorney said that everything was done in a very fair way.

"The Chicago Motor club, after the Murphy affair, printed signs and posted them at Antioch which read: 'Speed law of Antioch 15 miles. Observe it. Chicago Motor club.'

Calls Marshal a Highwayman
"However, that did not settle matters. According to Antioch reports, Murphy wrote a letter to President King of the village and declared that the village marshal, Mr. Congdon, was a 'highwayman in constable's garb.'

"Another letter written to President King threatened the president that if he did not take summary action and discharge Marshal Congdon that he and other resorters would take steps to divert the trade that came from their district away from Antioch.

"Accordingly in view of these two statements and because of a petition that had been circulated among business men previously that Congdon be discharged President King called the marshal to his office Monday afternoon. He told him frankly what had taken place, namely that there was a protest against the enforcement of speed laws but Congdon came back with the explanation that the council ordered him to enforce them and he was doing just that thing.

"But under the circumstances," said President King, "I wish you would resign your position and that would let us down easy."

"No, I have no intention of doing any such thing," said Marshal Congdon whereupon the president insisted that it would be the better way out of it for him to tender his resignation.

Couldn't Wait

"Why not wait until Tuesday night when the village board meets and put the matter before them?" asked Congdon.

Whereupon President King replied "No I can't do that; I've got to have action today."

"Well, I won't resign," said the marshal, "and as you hired me you will have to fire me if you want me to quit."

"Well, if that is the way you want it then that's the way it is," said the president.

"Then I am fired, am I?" asked the marshal.

"You are," said the president.

Hands Over Star

"And forthwith Marshal Congdon handed the president his star and walked away from his office. One of the first men he chanced to meet was Fred Hawkins, trustee of the village. He told Hawkins what had happened in the president's office and a short time later met Bert Grice, also a trustee.

"He told Grice about the discharge, whereupon Grice went to confer with Hawkins and they in turn went together to Trustee Sibley and the three went on to Charles Richards another trustee.

All Decide to Quit

"The four talked the matter over and decided that in view of the circumstances, in view of the president having discharged the marshal who was enforcing the rules which they had made, that they could not continue acting under President King. Accordingly they got together and wrote out a formal resignation on a blank furnished them by the village clerk and mailed them to President King who received them this morning.

Petition Circulated

"In connection with the climax in Antioch affairs it develops that recently a petition was circulated among the business men asking for the discharge of Marshal Congdon, but few of the business men signed it. Accordingly it was withdrawn and individual action through the action taken by President King followed.

Marshal's Story

"In speaking of the whole matter today Marshal Congdon said:

"It looks as though the village president was desirous of catering to the law-breaking element who live in the territory near Antioch rather than to the rest of villagers who have lived there all their lives and who are there winter and summer.

"These people of the resort come here only for a short time. They tear through the village without regard to safety of our people and it was only because they were tearing up the road and terrorizing folks that the village council decided the practice must stop. There have been several incidents wherein men who have driven through our village at great speed have been drunk and have been a severe menace to the public. If you will recall I brought in five to Waukegan one day last week all of whom had been drinking and who had liquor in their possession.

"The fact was that rowdism had been so rampant in the village for some time past and that there had been so much speeding that the village board as a majority decided it was time to call a halt. That is why they gave me orders to go out and enforce the law and I was merely complying with their request, rather than modifying my policy as suggested by the president. I tried to do my duty and tried to enforce the wishes of the majority of the council rather than the individual, Mr. King."

The only redeeming feature in this anti-Antioch-pro-Waukegan and pro-small group of men affair is the business-like way in which the president has handled this situation. Instead of rushing into print and denying the grossly misrepresented statements given out by this small body of "Antioch boosting" citizens, he has wisely refrained from giving any interview to the newspapers whatever. President King believes that the citizens of Antioch are perfectly capable of managing their own affairs and when the town needs the assistance of the county seat the proper method in applying for assistance will be forwarded through the proper channels and under the seal of the village board.

The coming election will show whether the village president has handled this situation to the satisfaction of the villagers and whether the parties upholding this commonly alluded to 'hold up' game and petty small town stuff. When the time comes when this village can not get along without 'slapping' a fine on about everybody that comes through our town then we should give up our corporation.

The harm and ridicule accomplished by the evidently well-meaning gentlemen who gave out the interviews may be seen in the following clipping from a Los Angeles paper:

WAUKEGAN, Ill., July 28.—William Jennings Bryan was arrested twice for speeding while on his way here to lecture, it became known today.

He climbed into Jack Bairstow's car at Delavan, Wis., and told Jack to "step on it" so he could get to the lecture hall on time. At Antioch the car slacked up to turn a corner and Marshal J. B. Congdon introduced himself without ceremony.

"I'm William Jennings Bryan," announced the commoner.

"Live in Waukegan?" asked the marshal taking out his book.

"No, I'm Mr. Bryan, I'm going there to give a lecture."

"What business are you in?"

"I'm a writer on political economy. I've been a candidate for president of the United States. I've been secretary of state."

"Never heard of you," said the marshal. "I used to know a Bryan down at Zion City but his name wasn't Bill. He's dead now, anyway."

Then the marshal recognized Bairstow at the wheel. Then he added:

"I'll let you go with a warning. If you are a friend of Jack's you are probably all right."

At Zion City they were stopped again.

"I'm William Jennings Bryan," said Mr. Bryan when asked his name.

"Glad to know you," said the motor cop. "I'm Woodrow Wilson. The man in uniform across the street is Robert E. Lee. Christopher Columbus is out shooting craps with Queen Elizabeth."

Bryan stepped out of the car into the light. The copper recognized him.

"I beg your pardon," he said. "Let me shake the hand of the man who raised grape juice to its high estate. We are all prohibitionists here."

Bryan complied and sped on.

Everything depends upon the weather now if there is to be much of a cucumber harvest. The vines have done very well so far, we are informed, there are many blossoms and everything is favorable if we have plenty of rain. This question of rain is a paramount issue with those farmers living near Lyons that have signed up to furnish the products of this vine to the local pickling plant.—Standard Democrat.

Producers of farm produce, by forcing a voluntary agreement of the railroads to reduce export grain rates, have successfully opened up the way for substantial reductions in freight rates on staple commodities. The shippers are confident that sweeping cuts in domestic rates on important farm products will soon be authorized.

Western Canada Land of Prosperity

Offers to home seekers opportunities that cannot be secured elsewhere. The thousands of farmers from the United States who have accepted Canada's generous offer to settle on FREE homesteads or buy farm land in her provinces have been well repaid by bountiful crops. There is still available on easy terms, land similar to that which through many years has yielded from 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre—oats, barley and flax also in great abundance, while raising horses, cattle, sheep and hogs is equally profitable. Hundreds of farmers in Western Canada have raised crops in a single season worth more than the whole cost of their land. With such success comes prosperity, independence, good homes and all the comforts and conveniences which make life worth living.

Farm Gardens, Poultry, Dairying are sources of income second only to grain growing and stock raising. Attractive climate, good neighbors, churches and schools, good markets, railroad facilities, rural telephone, etc.

For certificate entitling you to reduced railway rates, illustrated literature, maps, description of farm opportunities in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, etc.

Improved Lawn Mower.

A lawn mower that will successfully cut the grass on the incline of a terrace and that will not require its operator to pull it up and down, nor run up and down the grass bank himself, is described in Popular Mechanics Magazine. In construction the new device does not differ greatly from the old-style lawn mower. Instead of the stationary handle, the new machine has a pivoted handle set on a toothed quadrant. By lifting a stop pin from between the teeth of the quadrant, and setting it to the desired point, the mower is brought into an angular position relative to the operator, so that he can cut a lengthwise swath on the slope without leaving the ground level.

ANTI-BEER BILL PASSES SENATE

Campbell-Willis Measure Prohibiting Beverage as Medicine
O. K.'d 38 to 20.

CARRIES SEVERAL CHANGES

Amendment Makes Dry Officers Who Make Searches and Seizures Without Warrants Liable to Fine and Imprisonment.

Washington, Aug. 10.—The Campbell-Willis anti-beer bill prohibiting the prescription of beer as medicine and imposing rigid restrictions on the use of other intoxicating liquors for medical purposes, was passed by the senate. The vote was 38 to 20.

The bill was passed with an amendment making prohibition officers who make searches and seizures without warrants liable to fine and imprisonment. It also makes it a felony for persons posing as prohibition officers to subject a citizen to indignities or a deprivation of his constitutional rights under the pretense of enforcing the dry law. The anti-beer bill already has passed the house.

Discussion of the bill provoked another intense fight. The issue was supplied by the Reed amendment which makes prohibition officers who violate the rights of private citizens in enforcing the "dry" law punishable by heavy fines and imprisonment.

Charging that "dry" officers all over the country were exceeding their authority and making searches and seizures without warrant, Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, Republican floor leader, demanded the adoption of the amendment as a protection against the continuation of the practice.

Senator Williams, Democrat of Mississippi, expressed the opinion that a citizen who was molested by prohibition officers and his valise ransacked in search of liquor "would be justified in knocking the officer down."

"If he wasn't able to knock him down, I think he would be justified in shooting him," the senator added.
"There must be protection from this tyranny."

The "antics" of the enforcement officers, Senator Stanley, Democrat, of Kentucky, declared, "would make the angels in heaven weep." It is customary, he declared, for men and women to be waylaid in the highways and searched and subjected to other indignities by these men whose "ubiquitous noses," he added, "constantly smell the scent of liquor."

Fuel was heaped on the flames by Senator King, Democrat, of Utah, who declared that the enforcement agents had "utterly disregarded the rights of private citizens" in trying to enforce the dry law.

"They have invaded homes, abused persons and committed other acts that would only be justified by the Anti-Saloon league," the senator declared.
"There is no question but something ought to be done to punish these men who refuse to respect the rights of individuals."

Senator Sterling, Republican, of South Dakota, who is in charge of the bill, assailed the amendment and called for its defeat. He contended that private citizens are fully protected already against illegal searches and seizures by the penal statutes of the espionage act. The only effect the amendment could have as a consequence, he argued, would be to encourage bootlegging.

Sensor Lodge took issue with him stating that the act covered searches without warrant but not seizures.

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged

Rex Beach, who has forsaken the lucrative one of scenario writer, said

at a Hollywood tea:

"It is a common enough thing for a good man to dash off a scenario in but scenario writing, nevertheless, isn't all beer and skittles."

Mr. Beach chuckled.
"There's an English poet in our

REALLY A BRILLIANT IDEA

School-teacher Saw at Once the Particular Value of a Certain Somewhat Peculiar Toy.

It looked to her like a big idea.
She had discovered one of those elusive, seductive, tantalizing little toys, so popular now, in which the mere spinning of it gives one opportunity to take one, take all, pay three, etc. Being an Indianapolis schoolteacher, she immediately noted it as a novelty.

"Such a clever little thing," she said to the clerk. "I've never seen a toy like it before. What are they for?"
"Well, they're a sort of diversion," the saleswoman replied. "Many people use them financially."

"Oh, yes, of course, of course. How many of them have you? I was just teaching the children combinations in numbers—nice for arithmetic, as it were."—Indianapolis News.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine.
A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify.
No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr.
Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact,
so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address

80 Years Old —Was Sick

ow Feels Young After Taking Eatonic for Sour Stomach

"I had sour stomach ever since I had the grip and it bothered me badly.
Have taken Eatonic only a week and am much better. Am 80 years old,"
says Mrs. John Hill.

Eatonic quickly relieves sour stomach, indigestion, heartburn, bloating and distress after eating because it takes up and carries out the excess acidity and gases which cause most stomach ailments. If you have "tried everything" and still suffer, do not give up hope. Eatonic has brought relief to tens of thousands like you. A big box costs but a trifle with your druggist's guarantee.

FORDSON TRACTOR

"Henry Ford Right When He Said:

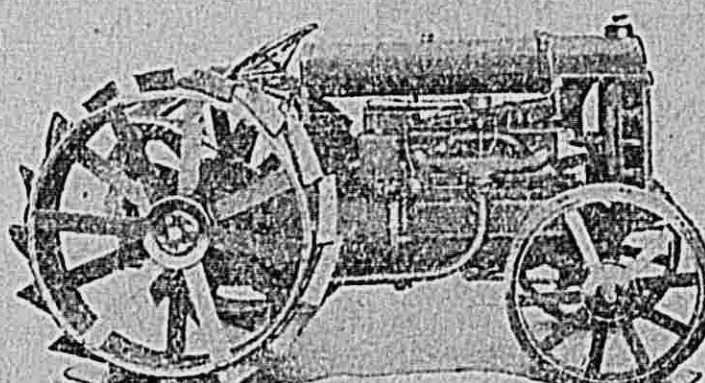

'The Tractor will enable the farmer to work fewer hours in the day, giving him more time to enjoy life. I believe the tractor will make farming what it ought to be—the most pleasant, the most healthful, the most profitable business on earth!'

This tractor has done much—very much—in bringing true Mr. Ford's prophecy; for in it is a machine which has harnessed one of the most dependable, efficient, adaptable, economical sources of power in the world—a machine that saves from thirty to fifty per cent of the farmer's time—a machine which many farmers claim plows, harrows or drills as much ground in the same time as four, six or even eight horses. And more—a machine that takes care of every power job on the farm.

Call and let's talk it over, or telephone or drop us a card and we will bring the facts to you.
